Dedication

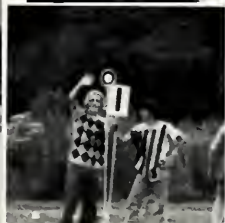

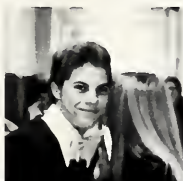

MR. JOHN R. WARD

Coming to Heritage last year, Mr. Ward was confronted with a huge task. He was forced to work with a somewhat disreputable student body. When he became headmaster, he devoted his full concentration and efforts toward building a better school and having better communication between the administration and students.

Under his leadership, our school became the first non-religious private high school in Mississippi to be accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. We are very proud of this accomplishment and of Mr. Ward for his determination to make Heritage one of the finest schools in the state. Therefore we feel him deserving of the honor of this dedication.

"For the devotional today, I'd like to read from Proverbs . . ."

"We FINALLY won something."

"Well, what do you want to do now."

"Shoot, Christy, I did not mean it that way."

"Lay one on me, Jeff."

So you decided to come to school today, Becky.

Rough night, Austin?

"I don't see any good little boys or girls here."

But they keep coming back!!!

Which one this time, Bec?

This is a colored picture.

Can you shout a little louder, Ann?

I want my mama.

Senior Poem

We've done our best

We've laughed

We've cried

We've had fun

And we've worked hard

but our tears and our sweat have melted the bonds that once held us together as one — only the memories remain and neither our love or our loyalty to one another can keep us together. Now we are faced with new horizons to experience and new challenges to conquer. But we can and we will conquer them.

Some of us will remain together, but we will all have our separate lives to lead — and if by some chance in the future our paths should cross, we can reminisce about the good times — our times together — here in high school — at Heritage Academy.

Trees grow on money!

A big investment over a long period of time — that's what our High Yield Forestry adds up to.

First, there are the costs of new forests: Forestry research, preparing the land, and planting more than 150 million seedlings and seeding thousands of acres annually.

Then feeding and thinning the young forest and protecting the trees from disease, insects, and fire. Taxes are another continuing forest expense.

Next is the harvesting, involving expensive roads and equipment.

As the wood and wood fiber are turned into building materials and paper and packaging, the cycle of the High Yield Forest is started again with planting and seeding.

This annual is unique because its publication occurs during the year in which our nation is commemorating its two hundredth birthday. A number of events are planned for the celebration of the Bicentennial. Many of them will soon be forgotten, but, hopefully, this yearbook will rekindle the spirit of the Bicentennial for all the years to come.

As we look back through the history of the development of our nation, we see not only great triumphs, but also mistakes. Having had the advantage of the best education possible, our generation should strive to use this advantage to build a stronger nation free from some of the failures of the past.

Until now we have known only privileges and security; however, in the future we will be expected to assume responsibilities to our country, our school, and ourselves. We should be prepared to make a contribution to society rather than being a dependent of society. If we should not succeed in this endeavor, we will have misused our education. The future of our nation depends on the path our generation will take, and time alone will record our success or our failure.
